Science on the Weather.

De past few weeks is been so hot Our house aint fit to live in; 'Pears like de shade aint thick enoug! Fur cool air to be given.

Ole Uncle Ephraim cum one day
To talk about de weather;
(You knows de talk is mighty larned

(You knows de talk is mighty larned When we two gits together.)
He say'd he aint felt no sech heat
In all his livelong days;
And he's a mighty ole man now,
But that's just what he says.
He says there aint but one way left
To lower the temper a-tur,
And he don't know but what that way
Don't jest agree with natur.
But still he thinks that anything
Is fa'r and souar to beat her.

Is fa'r and squar to beat her.
An instrument he's gwine to use
He hears folks call "ther-me-ter."
He knows that Mr. Joshua Lee, And Mrs. Chester use 'em, And which one is de coolest one

He hears 'em try to choose 'em.
Says I, "What does you spose dey cost?"
Says he, "Oh. 'bout a quarter."
Says I, "I'll git one right away,"
Says he, "I think you'd orter."
With that I hitched my ole roan hoss,
And drove to Ashtown store.
Says I "I want some thomaters.

Says I. "I want some thometers, I think I'd best take four." Think I'd best take four."
Bekase, as I said arterwards
To Martha, as I told her,
"If one will make de weather cool,
Why four will make it colder."
And den I 'quired of de clerk
How should I operate 'em,
And sched him ell shout de pinte.

And asked him all about de pints; He quickly did relate 'em. I tuk 'em home and hung 'em up;

De first one in de shed;
De second one towards de south,
Where most de heat we dread.
De third I hung upon de pourch,
And to make dis thing complete
I hung de fe'th towards de no'th,
To evard sejant de heat.

To gynard aginst de heat.
Wall, den I sot right down, and grinned.
In a casy rockin' cheer,
And says, says I, "I don't expect

"I guess I'll dream to-night, says I,
About de snow, and winter.
It somehow don't feel cooler yit,

It ort to, soon begin ter,"
It mought 'er been right warm before,
But now, it jest got hot,
'Twere like a oven everywhere,

And nare a breezy spot.

Dem thometers dey jumped about
All round de kunderd pint,

And each one says unto hisself "I wont be left behint." Wall, sech a night as that 'ar night I'll never feel again : I jest sot up and use a fan, And tried to think of rain. De fust thing that I done ne

Was ter pull dem critters down; And drapped all four into de well, And dar I let'em drown. I aint no more dan done dis thing, When a coolin rain cums by, And we didn't hab no more hot days As I can testify.

Death of a Confederate Spy. A Memphis special says: Mrs. Fanny

Ada Scott, a woman with a history, was found dead in her room in a boarding house this morning. She had succumbed to chloroform which she had been in the habit of taking to get relief from neuralgia. She came to Memphis six years ago, and since that time had gained a scanty livelihood by sewing. On more than one occasion when utterly destitute she was urged to apply to the au thorities for assistance, but refused, saying that all she asked of charity was a decent funeral when the death that she craved should come. Her maiden name was Fanny Anna Sparks. Her father was General Sparks, prior to the war a man of wealth and high social position. He was at one time connected with the New Orleans press and the reputed author of that touching poem of the war, "Somebody's Darling," Her first husband was Augustus A. Fowlkes, of New Orleans, from whom she was divorced in 1867. Three years later she married General Thomas M. Scott, who commanded the Twelfth Louisiana regiment during the war. He died three years later. Among Mrs. Scott's effects were found a number letters from persons of distinction in the Confederacy, including Jefferson Davis and Joseph E. Johnston. It appears that Miss Sparks must have been a Confederate spy, as mention is made of her being imprisoned by the Federals in Vicksburg and New Orleans during the war. Some time before her death she told an acquaintance that she had papers of great historica value which she proposed selling to the Government, but during her absence from home one day this person stole the docu-ments and Mrs. Scott could not recover them. From what she let fall in conversation these papers would throw a light on some of the dark passages of the war in the West and deeply concern leading commanders on both sides. Syrup of Figs

9th. A LOT OF GROUND WITH THE IM-PROVEMENTS thereon lying north of and adjoining lot No. 8 above described, fronting 22 feet 6 inches on Fayette street and extending back eastwardly 123 feet 5 inches.

10th. A LOT OF GROUND WITH THE IM-PROVEMENTS thereon, lying 4 feet north of and parallel to lot No. 9 above described, fronting 22 feet 4 inches on Fayette street and extending back eastwardly 123 feet 5 inches. The 4-feet of ground lying between lots 9 and 10 is intended to be for their common use as an alley.

The lots above mentioned into which the said quarter square has been divided are rectangular parallelograms. The 4-feet alleys referred to in the description of the said lots are to be used in common in connection with all the lots abutting or binding on them respectively. Lot No. 3 is established as the basis or starting point from which the location of all the other lots in the quarter square is to be ascertained. A map of the subdivision of said quarter square may be seen at the office of George A. Mushbach, 109 north Fairfax street.
